

Jars of HOPE

Kids love helping others and being part of a team. With each meal in Haiti only costing 25¢, even the youngest child here in the United States can help make a difference. We're excited to offer our Jars of HOPE program, a simple and unique way to get the kids in our lives more involved.

This program is specially designed for children, because they understand quarters and this is a way they can make a huge impact on other children's lives.

- * Each child is given a jar (small Gatorade bottles & Pringles cans work nicely) to decorate with pictures of Haitian children. Trinity HOPE provides a label with the pictures and contacts for more information.

- * For a specific and limited amount of time, the child and their family collects all the loose change they can and fills the jar.
- * They combine all the money they collect with their group and calculate how many meals they're able to provide in Haiti.

Our vision is that a school or church would set a goal and track their progress for the number of meals they want to provide, or maybe create a competition between schools or classes. Trinity HOPE will support your organization with prizes if needed.

Email us at admin@trinityhope.org if you're interested in organizing a campaign. And if you're not involved with kids, don't let that discourage you. This idea can also be used in your work place, community groups, adult Bible studies, civic organizations, and more.

Please send all donations to the following address: Trinity HOPE, 2024 Hunters Place, Mt. Juliet, TN 37122.
